

SPECIAL TOPICS COURSE FOR WINTER 2017:

AAS 498

RACE, MEDICINE, & THE ENVIRONMENT

What is the relationship between race and the environment? How does an examination of race and the environment alter dominant, disparate narratives about the natural and human worlds? This course seeks to bridge the disconnect between humans and their larger environment. In this course, we discuss various topics that relate to the environment, medicine, and race, including the impact of colonialism on the American landscape, immigration and biodiversity, chemical warfare, whiteness in dominant environmental movements, and present-day environmental racism and justice.

For more information, contact

Prof. Jeannie Shinozuka jnatsuko@uw.edu

Department of American Ethnic Studies

206-543-5401

AMERICAN ETHNIC STUDIES

SLN: 10109

5 credits

Monday / Wednesday 10:30-12:20