

AES 340

RACE, ETHNICITY, AND EDUCATION

Reuben DeLeon

Centering on theoretical, historical, and contemporary examples, this course explores schooling through the critical examination of research, policy, and praxis within the fields of Ethnic Studies and Education. A sample of topics covered will be: history of contemporary schooling, Affirmative Action, student organizing, politics of language, and Critical Race Theory. The course is designed for, but not limited to, those interested in careers as teachers and/or researchers in the field of Education.

SLN: 10183
T Th 3:30-5:20
DIV and I&S
5 CREDITS

for more information, email AES@uw.edu

AMERICAN ETHNIC STUDIES